The road into Willey West Campground, west of Drayton Valley by the North Saskatchewan River, is having problems with washouts. Whether it is caused by natural springs or water pockets is uncertain.

Council rejects signs of the time

A merchant's request for more two-hour parking signs has been rejected by Drayton Valley Town Council.

Council was told last Thursday that Darlington Audio had asked the transportation committee for two-hour parking signs on both sides of 50th Street and 50th Avenue to 52nd Avenue.

According to Dave

Turner, the town's bylaw enforcement officer, Darlington Audio was concerned over the lack of parking space, taken up by people who parked on the street all day.

A motion to proceed with Darlington's request was defeated. Instead Turner will carry out a survey of the businesses along 50th Street to see if they have similar requests.

"We're getting a little too speedy with this request," Councillor Charlie Miner cautioned council.

"It would be appropriate to investigate it first," he stated. "Then it should be advertised and posted," Miner added.

Prior to the request, council was told that all the new two-hour parking signs had been installed.

Employment office opens

A Canada Employment and Immigration Centre will open in Drayton Valley in September.

Joe MacLellan, executive director of the Pembina Educational Consortium, who has been working on this project for the past four months, informed town council of his success last week.

It is the intention of Canada Employment and Immigration to provide one-day-a-week (Monday's) service to Drayton Valley and area residents starting September 8th. Office space is being arranged in the provincial building.

"I'm encouraged as to what can happen", MacLellan says.

"I see it as a real benefit to the area. There's a real need here", he added.

"It's important that industry make use of the service", MacLellan says.

"Their not coming to fill out benefits. They want to provide long time employment", MacLellan explained.

And, if the traffic and volume is forth coming, Canada Manpower and Immigration officials in Edmonton have indicated they would expand the service in Drayton Valley.

The town is planning an official welcome.

Town promotion

Show goes on

The Town of Drayton Valley has decided to proceed with a promotional film.

A contract for $22,000, will be awarded to ITV of Edmonton.

According to Mayor Bob Mayhew, who will spearhead the project with Councillor Bill Panie, shooting for the film is expected to start this summer. It is hoped that ITV will include footage from the summer, fall and winter with a completion date set for next year.

It is the intention of the town to use the film for promotional purposes.

Every aspect of community living will be featured.

The mayor also hopes to expand beyond the town boundaries, especially to the southwest.

"We've been told we're sitting on a valuable timber resource and that should be included", Mayhew added.

Mayor receives pay raise

The mayor of Drayton Valley has received a 90 per cent raise in pay.

When council met last Thursday they gave their unanimous support to increasing Mayor Bob Mayhew's monthly salary from $220 to $400. The increase will see the mayor's yearly salary go from $2,640 to $4,800.

Even with the raise, Mayor Mayhew's monthly salary is behind most other communities included in a market survey carried out by the town.

The mayors at Edson, Whitecourt and Grand Cache collect $500 per month, while the mayor at Hinton is paid $760 per month and the mayor at Stettler earns $867 per month.

Other salary increases will see the deputy mayor receive $175 per month, which is a $76-pay hike.

Members of council who attend meetings will be paid $50, which is a $10-bike, while payment for attending council meetings remains at $75.

The mayor and members of council are also eligible for expenses when attending out-of-town functions.

The increases are the first since 1982.

The idea of more money for the mayor and members of council was discussed at budget time and the money is available.

In defending his raise in pay, Mayor Mayhew said he spends about three hours per working day doing town business. And if anyone cared to dispute his salary, he'd be glad to show them what he earned in the last couple of years.

Evansburg Angus at show

Craig Massey of Evansburg may not raise a lot of cattle, but he is enthusiastic.

Massey had one of his four Black Angus steers entered at the Fifth World Angus Forum show in Edmonton last week.

"I go to all the shows," Massey commented.

Having been around cattle all of his life, Massey has nearly always kept a hand in the business, he said.

Currently working on a farm near Evansburg, he keeps his small herd just to see how he does. Massey said his future in Angus cattle depends on how much he makes from these ones.

"I had a champion steer in Ft. MacLeod a couple of weeks ago," Massey said.

Like any of the Angus producers at the show, he said he got in to that breed because "they're the best kind," he commented.

On 50th Street

New subdivision

The Town of Drayton Valley has okayed a new mobile home subdivision on 50 Street, west of Woodland Chrysler.

Brougham Property Developments Ltd. of Drayton Valley, plan to build the subdivision.

"I don't see any serious objections," Councillor Charlie

Miner stated at last Thursday's council meeting.

"It's something we need in town. We don't have the properties available," Miner stated.

"I'm a little uneasy as to the location, but it will be beneficial to the town," Miner added.

South of park Interest in land

An unidentified Drayton Valley real estate firm is interested in the residential land south of West Valley Park.

The name of the real estate firm was not made public when the issue was raised at last Thursday's council meeting.

The interest in the land seemed to catch council off guard.

"I'm not aware of any development at this site in three years," stated Councillor Charlie Minor.

"It's not an appropriate site for residential," Miner added.

The land in question is located between West Valley Park and the Tucker quarter.

Just in case the unnamed real estate firm makes a deal for the property, the town wants to have all their paper work done.

Jack Patterson

Gets school post

A new Assistant Superintendent of Schools has been appointed for Parkland County.

The Board of Education has ratified the appointment of Jack Patterson.

Patterson, a native Edmontonian now residing in St. Albert with his wife Loretta and four children, will assume his duties in the county effective Aug. 26.

He fills the position left vacant when Marv Tkachuk was appointed Superintendent of Schools.

Patterson has a bachelor of physical education and a masters of education from the University of Alberta.

In addition, he has received a doctorate of philosophy majoring in supervision of instruction from the University of Oregon.

Patterson's teaching career began with the Edmonton Catholic System, where he taught high school social studies and physical education.

In addition to his teaching assignments, he was actively involved in extra-curricular programs such as coaching football, basketball, volleyball, wrestling and track.

In 1967, Patterson assumed a three-year appointment as an instructor of curriculum and instruction with the Faculty of Education at the University of Alberta.

Following his three-year appointment, he accepted the position of principal of Vital Grandin School in St. Albert, which he subsequently held for a period of 10 years.

Since 1980, Patterson has held the positions of director of instruction and director of support for the Sturgeon School Division No. 24.

Patterson said he is looking forward to meeting and working with the principals of Parkland County.

New church possible

The Pentecostal Tabernacle in Drayton Valley is looking to build a new church, but not for a few years.

Pastor Barry McGhie said they are thinking and talking about building, but added they are "thinking well into the future on this."

Right now, they are only maintaining the old church and have recently painted it, he commented.

Councillor Tom McGee told council last Thursday that the intersection in front of the hall is a matter of concern in regards to the potential accident situation.

McGee also informed council that the fire chief would rather see any money saved for a new hall in opposition to knocking out a wall which would create some immediate space. As it stands now, the fire truck must be moved out of the hall before the volunteer staff can get dressed. Besides, several areas in the hall are over crowded and are hampering the firemen in their jobs.

"Council is expected to discuss the matter again in September.

Drayton Valley is going to the dogs

Child attacked by dog

That could be the next front page headline in the paper if Drayton Valley Town Council doesn't take some immediate action to curb the increasing dog problems.

Parents living on the east side of town were demanding some action Monday, after a big Doberman chased several children in the St. Anthony school yard. The same dog was observed running alongside a group of kids on bikes last week, on the road near the old drive-in theatre.

Council has been talking about the dog problem for six months. The only action taken was to increase patrols.

But it's obvious that hasn't helped, as several packs of dogs were seen running at large around town on the weekend. And now, reports of children being chased. A child being attacked and seriously injured could be next.

The town can start by making their animal control officer more visible.

And if that doesn't work, they should look at hiring someone locally to catch dogs.

The way it is now, if someone has a problem with dogs, the call is made. By the time the animal control officer gets here from Leduc, the dogs are gone.

If the animal control officer needs better equipment in order to do the job, council should get serious about the problem.

Hefty fines for the owners might be considered.

It's obvious from the number of dogs running loose in Drayton Valley that a lot of owners don't care about their so-called pets.

But the parents of kids who are being threatened by these dogs care. And that should be enough for council to do something.

(We should re-name the town Dog Valley!)

Behind-the-scenes

MacLellan brings Employment office into town

Community work has always been a way of life with me.

And, while it's been difficult getting involved in Drayton Valley, we do appreciate the offers we've had.

Two weeks ago...the weekend was spent as the official scorekeeper and announcer at the provincial pee wee "A" girls softball tournament in Red Deer.

It's always nice to go back home and work with people who recognize one's desire to get involved.

Last Tuesday we joined the staff at the Park Valley Pool in Drayton Valley for their first annual water show. While it was my job as M.C. to keep the show going and keep the spectators informed, the real worker behind the scenes was Charlene Jenkins. The pool manager spent many hours putting the 90-minute production together.

This weekend we hope to do some more announcing and score keeping at the second annual Lee Daragh Memorial baseball tournament at West Valley Park in Drayton

Editor's Notes

Valley. It's an eight-team, two-day tourney with the action starting Saturday at 8 a.m.

The salmon are definitely biting at Campbell River, B.C.

Evidence of that can be found in my freezer.

Steve Babcock, a former Drayton Valley resident, returned last week for a local wedding and brought along some salmon.

Babcock is in the charter boat business and works out of the Campbell River Lodge.

We're taking a serious look at Steve's invitation to do some salmon fishing this summer.

The Western Review's Lorne

Christensen and Neil Speers attended several functions involving the Queen Mother in Edmonton last week.

Christensen was fortunate enough to talk with the Queen Mother while Speers was on the scene for a meeting between the Queen Mother and Steve Fonyo.

It was an experience these two reporters will remember.

Joe MacLellan, executive director at the Pembina Educational Consortium in Drayton Valley is to be commended for all his work behind-the-scenes in getting Canada Employment and Immigration to open an office in town.

The one-day-a-week service will start September 9th.

Queen Mother at home with breeders

The Queen Mother looked right at home with 350 cattle breeders when she opened the Fifth World Angus Forum last week.

But then why not, she raises Angus cattle too.

The Queen Mother, who was in Edmonton to open the Forum, owns 35 head of Angus.

"It is a great pleasure for me to be here, among so many breeders and enthusiasts from all over the world, who believe that Aberdeen-Angus beef is best," she told the crowd.

The Queen Mother also pointed out that the Aberdeen-Angus breed has done so well because of "our friends in the Commonwealth, who maintained the old standards."

"My best cows are now the daughters of Canadian and New Zealand bulls," she added.

The Queen Mother, who has been the patroness of the Aberdeen Angus Society for 48 years, congratulated the stockmen for their "skill and devotion."

After she had opened the Forum she was given a scroll by Alberta Agriculture Minister Leroy Fjordbotten. The scroll announced the forming of a $1,500 scholarship for the next 10 years, to be given to an Alberta student in an agricultural-related field.

The Queen Mother has a friendly chat.

Once the Queen Mother completed the opening ceremonies she headed off to the AgriCom at Northlands to inspect the cattle entered in the show.

Once again she looked right at home as she walked among the animals, stopping frequently to talk with the owners.

The Queen Mother looked anything but tired as she finished her long walk through the AgriCom, while the press and her security staff were exhausted.

Papau New Guinea

Local nurse teaching through CUSO

By Neil Speers

The arrow tattooed near Wilda Vanderploeg's right eye shows how she is becoming part of Papua New Guinea.

For two years, Vanderploeg worked in Papua New Guinea, which she refers to as PNG, as a teacher for student nurses there. This Saturday, she is going back for another year.

After working a total of 21 years at the health unit and at the hospital in Drayton Valley, she wanted something a little more fulfilling, Vanderploeg commented.

"It's something I've waited all my life to do," she stated.

She applied to CUSO, The Canadian University Services Overseas, in November of 1981 and was then sent to PNG almost two years later.

"I think CUSO is a fantastic organization which does a lot of good for the world," she explained.

"PNG is the only country I know which has gone from the stone age to the jet age with no steps in between," she said.

She talked about the contradictions of having a solar-powered telephone system and going through tribal wars with arrows in PNG.

It was a tribe in one remote area which gave her the tattoo.

She had adopted a small boy from the village, and to show their respect for her, they made her a part of the village. They tattooed her to show they felt she was a member of the village, and she allowed them to because she felt the same.

Besides teaching student nurses and adopting children, Vanderploeg has been trying to raise money for two pet projects. The first is getting proper running shoes for the barefooted athletes of the country. The other is to set up a chicken and duck farm in "her" village to raise their level of protein and to teach them some business sense.

She commented PNG in "not like other developing countries. It has stayed as a rural country," the people did not move to the cities.

However, for a developing country, PNG has some of the most modern medical facilities, she commented.

Doctors from around the world go to PNG to work at the teaching hospital there, said Vanderploeg.

"In some ways, PNG is as advanced as any hospital in Canada," she stated, adding the exception is they do not supply linen which would be "stolen as fast as supplied."

Wilda Vanderploeg has arrow by right eye.

ERCB prediction

Oil production drop

By the year 2000 conventional oil production will drop by 50 per cent as older oil pools deplete, according to the ERCB's annual report.

"Not withstanding

July good for students

July is shapping up nicely for the Hire-A-Student office in Drayton Valley.

"A lot of casual jobs came in during the first couple of weeks," said Heather Parker, manager of the centre.

However, she added there are still a lot of students who could use work doing home improvements such as lawn mowing.

The recent car wash held by Hire-A-Student raised about $70 from a little over a dozen cars which came in, said Parker. The money raised was paid to the students who participated for their wages.

modest new discoveries of oil, and the implementation of enhanced recovery processes, conventional oil production will have been cut in half by the year 2000. This is due to the rapid depletion of the older pools which were discovered in the 1950s and 1960s. To offset this decline, greater emphasis will be placed on the development of oil sands reserves," states the report.

The report goes on to say synthetic crude oil will be greater than convention oil by the mid 1990's.

"To achieve this new balance, the oil industry will be challenged to modify its refining configuration throughout Canada," the report comments.

As well, recovery from the recession by world markets and the growth of the Canadian markets will increase the "long-term demand" for Alberta's resources and manufactured goods.

Indeed, the report states industrial use of energy will increase from 37.3 per cent to day to 47.7 per cent in the year 2000.

Council News

Good deal on town lots

Until Aug. 12 the Town of Drayton Valley is selling lots in Northview subdivision for $15,750. After that date the price jumps to $17,500. So far, the town has sold four of the 13 lots along 55 Avenue.

Ambulance costs going up

Council will likely be asked in August to open their cheque books for more money to pay for ambulance costs. Councillor Bill Paniec told council last week that a request will be coming next month, likely for $1,000.

Appointments....

Kent Sabine is the Chamber of Commerce appointee on the town's economic development committee. And town manager Manny Deol is council's selection as Disaster Services coordinator.

Vacancy on recreation board

The town is still looking for a volunteer to sit on the recreation board. The town manager reports that no one replied to an ad which appeared in the newspaper. If anyone is interested, they should call the recreation director.

Reid promoted to area supervisor for ERCB in town

Jim Reid has made a step up. The former assistant area supervisor with the Energy Resources Conservation Board (ERCB) in Drayton Valley has recently been promoted.

Reid is now area supervisor for the local ERCB branch, replacing Ron Paulson who was transferred to Calgary.

With his new title comes more responsibility. According to Reid he is now in charge of the "administration duties" of the office, including staff training, personnel hiring, setting objectives and budgeting.

He says as an assistant his time was spent "ensuring staff are completing their jobs properly and following up on inspections."

But administering the office will be no easy job.

The Drayton Valley branch of the ERCB is responsible for the area from the Stony Plain and Pigeon Lake area to the British Columbia border. The northern and southern boundaries of their coverage area goes from the Mayerthorpe to Grande Cache area down to Alder Flats.

In this "large" inspection area Reid says they have five main coverage areas - drilling and servicing, oil production, gas production, pipeline construction and environmental concerns.

"It's an even split," Reid adds in pointing out that right now there is a little more drilling and pipeline activity.

With the increased activity the new area supervisor is hoping to increase staff "down the road."

"We would like to increase staff," Reid explains, saying it is "hard to justify" more staff until a certain stable level of activity is reached.

But for now Reid is learning the ropes of his new position.

Reid, a native of Calgary, came to Drayton Valley eight years ago working for an oil company. Then "roughly" five years ago joined the local ERCB office as an area inspector. He was later transferred to Grande Prairie to run an ERCB satellite office.

But Reid was transferred back to Drayton Valley and now lives with his wife Diane and children Jason and Jodi in West Bank, near the Drayton Valley airport.

"I like Drayton Valley, I'll be here for a few years," he says but adds that "may change tomorrow."

CHUTE TALK

Cecil Currie won't be attending any more rodeos this season.

The 53 year-old former Montana band councillor from Hobbema made the decision after losing a thumb at the recent Ponoka oldtimers rodeo.

Currie was team roping when the rope became entangled around his saddle horn and ripped off his thumb. After a ten minute search the thumb was located, and rushed it and Currie to the University hospital in Edmonton.

However, the thumb was not reattached due to the risk of infection.

Currie, who has been riding down the road on the rodeo circuit for the past 40 years has planned to retire this year. The loss of a thumb prompted him to call it quits.

The Wild Rose Rodeo Association travels north to the Peace River country this weekend with stops at Valleyview and Manning. Show times at Valleyview are 1 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday with Manning to go at 1 p.m. Saturday and 7 p.m. Sunday. The Manning show will also include a draft horse pull and wagon races.

On the FCA circuit the action is at the Girlitz Ranch near Youngstown. Show times are 1 p.m. Saturday with the finals Sunday night at 7 p.m. For more information call Edna Weatherly at Botha 742-3921.

If your travelling out to B.C. for holidays the Golden rodeo is the weekend of August 31 to September 1. Entries close August 21 at 3 p.m. Call Sandra Markel at 344-5510 if you wish to enter.

The Wild Rose pony chariot and chuckwagon association will be in High Prairie July 31-August 1st and at Grimshaw August 2-4.

If you follow the professional circuit it's Medicine Hat and Swan River, Manitoba this Saturday and Sunday with a one-day show at Bruce, Sunday.

Both High Prairie and Stettler have pro shows July 31 and August 1. Grimshaw dates are Aug. 2-4 and Strathmore Aug. 3-5.

The Wild Rose Quarter Horse show is on at the Westerner in Red Deer. Show times until Sunday are 8 a.m.

A Hunter horse show will be held at the Westerner August 3-4.

A couple of other rodeos to circle on your calendar include Rockyford July 26 with a 6 p.m. start and the second annual Donalds rodeo on July 27-28 with a 2 p.m. start both days.

Several quarterhorse enthusiasts have been busy attending shows from Dawson Creek, B.C. to Red Deer and Lloydminster.

Tara Fleischacker won reserve high point at four shows, competing against youths from the three western provinces.

Allyn Huslage on Mea Sona Deck is leading Alberta in senior hunter under saddle, picking up points in many different youth classes.

Kathy Harke won another super horse award on Whiskey Gold at the Saskatchewan-Alberta show.

Christa Chorney of Wildwood, a top contender in the english class, has qualified for the national show in Edmonton in two events.

And Laurie Wiltse of Seba Beach won the western pleasure class at the Saskatchewan-Alberta show and has also qualified for the national show in Edmonton in two events.

Marketing plan

Jenkins wants to stimulate interest

Charlene Jenkins has some big plans for Drayton Valley's Park Valley swimming pool.

The pool manager presented an eight-page marketing plan to town council last Thursday that is aimed at stimulating more interest at the pool.

Some of Jenkins' plans include having a special day for grandparents, aunts and cousins, hosting special events for families, planning demonstrations in first aid, canoeing and kayaking, host more special events, promote pool events through a newsletter and posters, put out the pool floatables more often and organize games and water sports when possible.

She also hopes to promote seniors using the pool, develop a light water exercise, promote swimming at the junior and senior high school levels and encourage out-of-town groups to use the pool.

While swim attendance through the first six months of operation has been satisfactory, Jenkins is always keeping a close eye to making sure the pool meets the patrons' needs.

Eight teams in weekend tourney

The second annual Lee Darragh Memorial baseball tournament will be held this weekend at Lions Park in Drayton Valley. Eight teams—Warburg, Thorsby, Breton, Easyford, Peers Boss Truckers, Peers

Hetrodders, Drayton Valley Oilers and the host Drayton Valley D&S Driflers will participate in the two-day double knockout tourney.

Games start both Saturday and Sunday at 8 a.m. Easyford won the tourney last year and could be the club to watch this weekend.

A concession booth will be located on the grounds. All the tournament games will be played on the major baseball diamond at the park.

BMX track

Project almost done

The BMX track is almost finished.

According to Yogi Abendroth who is in charge of the Kinsmen-backed project, the track is "close to being done."

Abendroth expects that by the end of this week the track near West Valley Park will be complete.

The 20-foot-wide and 800-foot-long track has been built with the help of volunteers.

Some of the work came from Chet's Bobcat Service, Jerry Gravel, BP Resources Huslage, Mark Pearson, and the Town of Anderson Sand and Drayton Valley.

on Sunday. Rorstad is replacing the injured Blake Little at the center back position.

Ceasars are hot with last win

The weather was hot and so were the Ceasars. Under the hot sun on Sunday they dumped Parkland 5-1 in a league game.

The win moved Ceasars into fourth place just one point behind Whitecourt and Edison, tied for second.

Ceasars also still have one game in hand on league-leading Spruce Grove.

Rod Bealer got Ceasars going with an early goal on a penalty kick. Peter Kelepouris got the only other goal for Ceasars in the first half.

In the second half Ceasars got lucky on two of their goals with the Parkland goalie misjudging the ball. Mark Buckland and Dave Jackson both got goals after lobbing the ball over the Parkland goalie's head while Andy Kelly got the other Ceasars goal.

Jerry Goodman got the only Parkland goal after a breakaway in the second half. Ceasars goalie Simon Kelly made several key saves during the second half including a couple of close in grabs.

Ceasars will travel to Hinton this weekend to participate in a tournament.

Hunters still red despite new laws

There will still be a lot of hunters roaming the bushes wearing red despite new regulations that allow hunters to wear camouflaged outfits.

Don Onofrychuck, the local fish and wildlife officer, says he does not think the new regulation will bring that much change.

"In talking to hunters, everybody who were red in previous years will continue," he said.

He adds most of the people he has talked to have "worn red for years and are not about to change."

Onofrychuck cited "personal safety" as one of the prime reasons why many hunters will continue to wear brightly colored clothing.

His statements were echoed by the owners of the local sports stores.

Garry Swendsied, owner of The Outdoor Store, said he doesn't think the new regulation will bring that much change.

"Camouflage can come in handy in certain situations," he pointed out.

He added that 95 per cent of the hunters that are "pro-orange" will still wear the colored clothing.

Rick Meston, owner of Rick's Sporting Goods, also feels the regulation change will not bring about a great deal of change.

"Personally I wouldn't hunt without it (red clothing)," Meston said in adding that 90 per cent feel the same way.

"I don't understand why they did away with it," Meston said.

Foursome goes canoeing

By Lorne Christensen

Some people go on more traditional holidays to places like the Okanagan or the United States. But for four local people this summer's holidays will be a chance to challenge their canoeing skills on the Yukon River in Canada's north.

Dale and Jocelyn Bystrom, Ken Simon and Laurel Harke will be spending "15 to 18 days on the river."

Harke and Simon are from Drayton Valley while the Bystroms are from Entwistle.

The four left July 20 to drive to Whitehorse where their paddle adventure will begin.

They will paddle up to Dawson City according to Harke, who says the trip will also challenge their camping skills.

The trip will be made in two canoes, a 17-foot and an 18-foot.

Harke said they have been planning the trip since last October and everything has gone smoothly.

He added that they are in a "last-week rush" right now getting a "whole bunch of stuff ready." But getting ready is only part of the challenge. Another obstacle during the trip will be paddling through a 30-mile-long lake.

After they finish their trip the four will go down to Vancouver Island and do some kayaking.

Loggers meet Saturday

The sixth annual Easyford Loggers Festival will be held this Saturday at Easyford Park.

Events for every member of the family, displays and a spit roasted pork supper highlight the activities scheduled to start at 10 a.m.

There's no charge to enter the kids race, nail pounding, grease pig competition, chain saw events, barrel rolling and log toss.

Tickets for the supper will be sold on the grounds.

An added attraction

this year are the displays in the Easyford Hall. Participants will include

Will Quigg of Seba Beach won a gold in snooker while Paul Plakunowicz of Drayton Valley got a gold for a watercolor painting. Margaret Rutberg, of Niton Junction, won the other gold medal in the crafts division.

Plakunowicz also got a silver and a bronze for oil painting and photography respectively.

Other silver medal winners were Hilda Rand of Drayton Valley in five-pin bowling, Cal and Jessie Bartlett and Oscar and Jessie Hutchinson in carpet bowling. Frank Stefaniak of Evansburg in darts and Will Sleno took a silver in horseshoes

The games were the first ever held and could become a regular feature during years without provincial senior games scheduled.

According to Olive Joann, the area coordinator, the games in Barrhead "went over well."

She added that they help keep up interest in the games and keep enthusiasm going.

The Zone 5 area covers from Sherwood Park to Jasper, not including Edmonton, and then from Breton north to Athabasca.

Oilers win in extra-innings

The Anxex Oilers continued their drive to the bantam A baseball provincials on the weekend. The Drayton Valley squad won the best of three series against the host Sherwood Park team with a 5-4 extra-inning win to claim the Zone 5 championship.

The Oilers travelled to Sherwood Park on Saturday to play two games, losing the first game 16-2. They came back to win the second game Saturday 7-3 and then returned Sunday for the deciding third game. Originally, the series was to be played in Drayton Valley but had to be moved to Sherwood Park because of field conditions.

In the third game the Oilers were leading 3-1 after 5 1/2 innings, but fell behind 4-3 when Sherwood Park scored in the sixth. They tied it up in the seventh forcing the extra innings. Then Cory Dusterhoft singled in the 10th inning and eventually crossed the plate for the winning run. Dusterhoft was moved to third by Brad Allen's single on a hit-and-run play. Darren Fedorov then hit a ground ball, but beat out the throw to with Dusterhoft racing home. In the bottom of the 10th Anxex pitcher Brent Ruff struck out the first two batters before being tagged for a single. The next Sherwood Park batter then grounded out to second baseman Brad Allen to end the game.

Cory Dusterhoft

The team will go back to Sherwood Park for the northern inter-zone playoff this weekend with the top two teams advancing to the provincials.

Angels lose two

Pankey's Angels came away from the pee wee provincial playoffs with two losses and a win recently.

The Angels lost the opener 13-1 to the Fort Saskatchewan squad. Kevin Berquist took the loss on the mound for the Angels while his counterpart on the Fort Saskatchewan team buried a no-hitter.

The Angels lost their second game to Sherwood Park 11-8. Dean McDowell got two singles in a losing cause for Drayton Valley.

In the third game the Angels defeated Spruce Grove 16-9. In that game Chris Hutchinson got two singles and a double while Kevin Dusterhoft hit a double and a triple to lead the Drayton Valley team.

Diet to gain weight

Now is the ideal time to fatten animals

We move into second quarter today and the moon is in the beautiful sign of Libra. Enjoy art and harmony any way you can.

Partly, visit, paint, make floral arrangements. Experiment with new and different ways of combining the separates in your wardrobe.

July 25-26 will find us in the fertile water sign of Scorpio as well as in second quarter and increasing.

Apply chemical fertilizers. Water your lawn if it isn't raining, and mow the lawn or trim hedges if you want them to grow faster.

Also cut your hair if you want it to grow faster, and begin a diet to gain weight for yourself or your animals. This is the ideal time to start fattening up pigs or steers.

Scorpio is always the sign under which to stock up on medicines for yourself and your animals.

July 27-29 will find us in the jovial sign of Sagittarius. Enjoy summer. Travel and sight see. Visit. Go to the beach and ride horseback. Since this sign rules the thighs, exercises, jogging and biking are good bets too.

If you can't get there in person, write a letter and mail it.

This is a dry fire sign so wean animals and children. Ideally they should have had their last drink in a fruitful sign, Scorpio.

July 30-31 will find us in the earth sign of Capricorn and still in second quarter and increasing.

This is a time of guarded ambition and all are unobtrusively climbing toward some goal. Define yours and open a savings account to make it come true.

If you already have the cash consider buying property or antiques on speculation. Or buy a new car, clothes, or furniture to improve your image if you believe "You are what you own."

The important thing is to know where you are headed.

Important days this week
July 25 tells us there are exactly five months to wait for Christmas.

July 25 is St. Christopher's Day. Once his picture or statue appeared in all churches opposite the door so that all who entered would see it because the doggerel couplet explained, "Christofori faciem die quacunq' tueris Illa nempe die mala non morieris," or "If you see the face of Christopher on any morning you will be preserved throughout the day from sudden death".

July 26 is St. Anne's day. St. Anne was married for 20 years and childless when an angel came to her and told her she'd have a baby. That baby was the Virgin Mary, mother of Jesus.

Breton News

by Shelli Carson

Dwain Chpin travelled to Carrot River, Saskatchewan July 11, where he took part in the largest fiddlers contest in Saskatchewan. He placed second and was chosen to play a one half hour solo performance at the Big Country Jamboree at Craven, Saskatchewan July 21, in front of an audience of 20,300,000 people. Congratulations Dwain!

Related congratulations to Lynes and Verna Hanna on the birth of their daughter, Laura Ann, born June 6.

Congratulations to Sharmaine Maciborski and Terry Postnikoff on the birth of their daughter Melaine Leanne, born July 8, a sister for Michelle.

Stewart Hanson won a first place trophy and gift certificate in a golf tournament in Lloydminster.

Harold and Brigitte Hanson report having a nice holiday in B.C. While there they took part in a mixed curling bonspiel in Vernon.

The Prentice reunion on July 6-7 was held at New Moose Hill hall. Those attending came from Drayton Valley, Consort, Connor, Quensel, B.C., Rocky Mountain House, Edmonton, Lindsdale, Saskatchewan, Spruce View, Winterburn, Evansburg, Lacombe, Calmar, Leslieville, Manitoba and Breton.

On June 27, the regular meeting of the Breton and District Fish and Game Association was called to order by Don Fresson. Guest speaker Danny Wortniuk spoke on the fund loan program for central office, also of changes, one of these being the change of fish and game colors from orange and purple to navy for jackets. It was decided to pledge a loan of $2,000 towards the building fund. Following the meeting two very interesting videos followed. The "Sequoia Giants" and "Carlsbad Caverns National Park".

On July 3rd, Don Fresson called an executive meeting. Motions were made to pay all outstanding bills before the summer recess. A potluck supper is planned for the September meeting with a video to follow.

Neufeld, Davey have double rings

Christie Anne Neufeld of Entwistle exchanged vows in a double-ring ceremony with Richard Allen Davey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Davey of Evansburg, with Father Doyle officiating at St. Elizabeth's Church in Evansburg on May 11.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Neufeld, wore a traditional white wedding dress she made herself. It had a floor-length, full satin skirt embellished with lily of the valley. The bodice of satin overlaid with white lace with full sleeves caught at the wrists with satin cuffs and at the neck with a satin collar. The three-quarter-length veil flowed from a half-cap embroidered with pearls. Her bouquet was yellow roses and white daisies in theme with the two bridesmaids Brenda Davey, sister of the groom, and Marlene Beochler, wearing long yellow dresses and wide-brimmed hats and the matron of honor, Mrs. Karen Gibb, wore a cream colored full-length gown. All carried bouquets of white daisies.

The groom wore a light blue tuxedo with a yellow-tipped carnation.

The best men, Dave Macdonald, Donny Iwaschuk and Earl Neufeld, the bride's brother, wore light blue tuxedo jackets with navy ties, vests and trousers and white carnations.

The ring bearer, Brian Gibb, was in blue and navy as the groomsmen and a white carnation and escorted the flower girl, Trinity Davey, niece of the groom in yellow dress trimmed with white lace and little yellow and blue flowers. She carried a basket of yellow and blue roses and white daisies.

The ushers were James Neufeld, bride's brother, and Dale Davey, groom's brother.

Mrs. Wiest played the organ.

The bride's father gave the bride away. The bride's mother, wearing a full-length cardigan of the same color and a pink rose corsage, read the scriptures.

The groom's mother wore a full-length copper-colored dress with a white roses corsage and miniature white roses in her hair.

The groom's two grandmothers, Mrs. Fanny Davey of Drayton Valley and Mrs. Emily Horst of Evansburg and the bride's grandmother Mrs.

Elizabeth Neufeld of Burnaby, B.C. sat at the bridal table. They all wore white corsages.

The master of ceremonies, the bride's uncle, Ken Butchard and aunt, Edith Butchard, sat at the bride's table. The master of ceremonies proposed the toasts to the bride to which the groom aptly responded.

The four-tiered cake, made by the bride's mother was beautifully decorated in yellow roses. The reception and dance were held in the Entwistle Community Hall.

The out-of-town guests came from Lillooet, Surrey, Vancouver, Burnaby, Yarrow, Dawson Creek B.C. and Carrot River, Sask. Red Deer, Blackfalds and Edmonton.

Telegrams of best wishes to the newlyweds were received from Northumberland, England and New Brunswick, and a phone call from Talworth Surrey, England.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Davey, after a short honeymoon in Yellowstone National Park, are residing in Entwistle.

Farming is dangerous job

Farming today is said to be the third most dangerous occupation in North America in terms of death rate.

Farm work involves complex machinery, unpredictable livestock and long hours. The people in farming cope with demanding work and time pressures, therefore farmers are pushed to fill their day to capacity.

By Bev Brooks

As a farmer, working hard to get the year's crop work done, it's easy to forget farm safety. It should be foremost on your mind though. Take a look at these facts:

— Farm deaths cause more than two deaths per month in Alberta.

— Children are involved in 19 per cent of reported farm accidents.

— Eighty-nine per cent of the victims in accidents involving machinery recognized some hazards but failed to do anything to remove them.

— Machinery three years or older was involved in 76 per cent of accidents.

— April and May, the busy seeding and calving period account for about one-quarter of all reported injury accidents.

How you can help prevent accidents

1. Run a safety seminar for your family. Devote a half-day, or whatever it takes, to making rules and planning safe ways of doing things. You may want to do it with a neighboring family and make a social occasion of it. A half-day at this could save days, dollars and lives.

2. Follow the safety rules that you set. "Do as I say and not as I do", has no place in a safety program.

3. Concentrate entirely on the work and machinery at hand, forget other worries for the time being.

4. Get enough rest. Each family member should be careful to fill the day with only the number of activities they can handle. This way fatigue is avoided, and in the long run, accidents prevented.

5. Know first aid and how to reach the police, ambulance, fire and doctor.

Educating both yourself and your children in the area of farm safety could be the best thing you'll ever do for your family. To help you get started, come to our office or phone 542-5368 for the free publication, 'A Manager's Guide to Farm Safety'. This booklet provides practical information about how to make your farm a safer place to live and work. It includes ideas about teaching the experienced; managing stress; machinery, animal and tool safety; personal safety equipment and first aid. Make it a top priority to avoid the physical, emotional, economic and unexpected costs of farm accidents.

Farming requires special skills. It has taken you a few years to learn how to farm efficiently to stay healthy in life and limb. Take it upon yourself to help those who don't have your experience. You can make the difference when it comes to safety on your farm and with your family.

Construction at landfill almost done

Construction is almost finished at the Drayton Valley sanitary landfill.

A $325,000 project, funded by the provincial government, started around the beginning of the month to pave the road into the landfill site and around the weigh scale, according to county engineer John Twach.

About a half-mile of road from the highway to the weigh station is being paved, and new roads are being built inside the site, he commented.

In addition, some landscaping is being done to the area surrounding the site with the berms reshaped and grass seed put in, Twach said.

The landfill site will also be the base for a set of four transfer stations in the area, Twach stated.

These include Violet Grove, Rocky Rapids, Easyford and Buck Creek.

Twach said the transfer stations will replace the current landfill sites with a bin which residents place refuse in. These bins, which are owned by the contractor doing the hauling, will then be pulled up onto a rail truck with an empty bin left behind.

The Drayton Valley Regional Landfill Authority plans to empty the bins about once a week for now, adjusting the schedule to meet demand, Twach explained.

The cost for the transfer stations is $160,000, said Twach.

He said both projects are slated to finish in about three weeks.

Platz may return to Mexico

Jamie Platz, the 10-year-old cancer patient from Buck Creek may be returning to Mexico.

"When we were in Mexico the first time, the doctors told us that Jamie's back could be straightened without surgery," Gail Platz explains.

"We're looking at that now," she added.

If some property at Buck Creek can be sold to finance the trip, the family will make plans for a return trip to Mexico.

Talking about her son's first trip to Mexico where he spent 21 days at a hospital on a special diet, Gail Platz says "he's doing very well."

"He's been in to see his bone specialist and he will be in touch with the doctors in Mexico," Platz explained.

"I've never seen him happier. He's gained weight and is just doing super," she said.

Early in August Jamie Platz will purchase another supply of vitamins which are a key to his good health.

Fay Whitley, a spokesperson for the Jamie Platz trust fund, reports that close to $16,000 was raised to make the first trip to Mexico possible.

Pulp mill site up for sale

There's interest in Drayton Valley's Tucker quarter.

The quarter, originally slated as the site for Makin's proposed pulp mill, is getting some attention.

Tom McGee, chairman of the town's economic development committee says "A couple of acres are being looked at. But, it's only tentative."

The town has put a $650,000 price tag on the quarter just in case someone wants the entire site. The land is being advertised through local real estate outlets and the town has hired Dick Nobbs to approach buyers.

On July 13 and 14 about 150 people gathered at Sedgewick for a family reunion.

There were five brothers and seven sisters of the Patten clan and their families. They used the community centre and played ball games, had peanut scrambles and bowled.

Buck Lake News

Edith and Elmer Johnson attended a school reunion at Assinibois, Sask. June 29 and 30. The grad classes from 1946 to 1949 were eligible to participate. Former cheerleaders for the basketball teams donned their uniforms and went through their routines. The orchestra played all the top 10 tunes from the five years that they were remembering.

Pearl Schenk attended the Symington reunion at Sylvan Lake June 29, 30 and July 1 with about 200 people.

And in keeping with the reunion theme, Sig. LeOpal, Perry and Theresa went to a family reunion at Canyon Hot Springs July 13 and 14. In attendance were about 30 people including Russ and Erma Powers and some of their descendants and spouses and friends. They camped and enjoyed the hot weather.

Colleen and John Kanderka and children of Irriana spent their two weeks' holiday at the home of her parents Edith and Elmer Johnson.

About 100 swimmers have enrolled in swimming lessons at the Buck Lake campsite. Instructors are Ann Milner and Betty Bohning with Colleen Siegel assisting.

The Department of Highways brought sand for the beach which was donated by Peter Murray. The department also maintains a big dock and Ken Burnett put in small docks for the bobbers and paddlers.

These swimming lessons, which are Red Cross Safety endorsed, are sponsored by the Buck Lake Swim Club and Zone 4 recreation board. The swimmers and instructors appreciate the support and donations received.

Pearl Schenk attended the 15th wedding anniversary celebrations of her cousins Bertha and Chester Botting at Heinsburg July 5, 6 and 7.

More than 400 guests camped for the weekend and enjoyed the festivities. A large tent was the focal point for pancake breakfasts and a pit barbecue and dance.

Congratulations to Colleen Siegel who was the 1985 Buck Lake Stampede queen. Princesses were Katy Ricks and Joan Dufva. Paul Jensen won the $200 draw, Travis Moody the $150, Norm Moore $100, Dennis Beisel $100 and Janet Moody won $50.

Pretty quiet

Surgery on hold

The Drayton Valley and District Health Complex is well into its summer slowdown.

"June and July are pretty quiet," commented Bob Wilson, the director of finance and support services.

He explained the slowdown is to accommodate vacation time for staff members.

For now, Wilson stated, only emergency surgery will be performed, elective surgery being put off for a few weeks.

In about two or three weeks, it will be "back to normal" at the hospital, said Wilson.

More oil wells drilled

ERCB licences up 45 per cent over last year's total

More oil wells were drilled in 1984, but markets remained depressed according to the ERCB annual report.

The ERCB issued 7176 well licences last year which is 45 per cent more than the previous year and the highest number since 1980 when 7440 were issued.

Both events will be held on the second day of the fair. For more information contact Ray Ellis in Breton at 695-2483.

The two-day fair to be held indoors at the curling rink, offers competition in culinary arts, flowers, vegetables, fruits, field crops, handicrafts, needlework, arts and crafts, photography, sewing, a junior section (17 and under), school section, rabbit show, poultry, rural and yard beautification, baby show and 4-H section.

For more information on the indoor exhibits call Olga Brown at 542-5943 or publicity director Peggy Tyler at 542-2190.

revenues of $25 billion in 1984 — a new record..." states the report. Of that money, more than $15 billion came from oil which the report calls Alberta's leading revenue generator.

As well, coal production went up by five per cent. Most of this was in subbituminous coal which is used for generating electricity.

In 1984, the report states there were about 6.2 exajoules from all sources of energy, one exajoule being the equivalent of 160 million barrels of oil.

Almost 85 per cent of this energy was in the form of oil and gas. Coal and bitumen took up most of the remaining 15 per cent while hydro did make a small contribution.

A little over 75 per cent of the resources were shipped out of the province to be processed, according to the report.

Only 3 exajoules, or five per cent, went into producing electricity. Of that, 1 exajoule made it to the electric power lines, the other 2 exajoules, or two-thirds of the resources, were lost in the making of electricity.

Also mentioned in the report is how exploratory drilling increased by 43 per cent from 1983 which is accounted for by "improved industry cash flow and stronger oil markets."

Development well drilling, which increases the amount of oil which can be taken out of a producing or producible well, increased by 25 per cent.

Experimental projects increased by eight per cent from 1983.

Gas production went up to over 65 billion cubic metres, about five billion more than in the previous year. "Gas production recovered from 1983 levels, largely because of lower export prices and improving markets," states the report.

The applications to the ERCB for additions or alterations for generating and transmitting electricity decreased over 1984. Only 87 applications were submitted compared to 110 in 1982.

Last year there were also several farmers in the province who applied for wind-powered generators with capacities ranging from two to 45 kW. One of these farmers even applied to sell surplus energy to an electric utility company. Following a public hearing, the ERCB authorized the sale of such electricity to TransAlta and has set policy to allow others to do the same.

Speakers address Angus market issues

Consumers' new-found preference for lean meat is better for beef producers according to one speaker at the Fifth World Angus Forum in Edmonton last week.

Dr. Stephen Morgan-Jones, of Agriculture Canada out of Lacombe, told more than 350 delegates at the forum about the benefits which are coming from the health movement towards leaner meat. He was one of six speakers to address the forum.

"In Canada, the minimum requirements for fat are now at four millimetres to be eligible for the best carcass grades," Morgan-Jones stated.

"Consumers are increasingly demanding a leaner product and hence there is a conflict between perceived quality standards for the product and the need to respond to consumer demand," he added.

According to Morgan-Jones, in simulation studies having leaner beef, saved a lot of money in feed.

By reducing the fat content of cattle from about 25 per cent to 15 per cent would "result in about a 20 per cent gain in overall feedlot efficiency," he commented.

Another speaker, Dr. Reuben Maplettoft of the Western College of Veterinary Medicine in Saskatoon, spoke about the process and uses of embryo transfer technology.

One of the first points he made was the change the technology has made in the value of cows.

"As A.I. has led to the very valuable bull, now embryo transfer has resulted in the very valuable female," he said.

Such technology also allows for an easy way for twinning calves, Maplettoft commented. "It has been estimated that unit beef production can be increased by 60 per cent in intensively managed herds through twinning."

Another economic aspect he raised was in transporting cattle which can cost $1,000 or more for one live animal and yet a whole herd can be shipped "for less than the price of a single plane fare," when shipped as frozen embryos, Maplettoft exclaimed.

However, he pointed out potential problems in successfully freezing embryos and "the inadvertent introduction of disease...with or within the embryo."

Special techniques and procedures have to be followed to minimize these problems, Maplettoft said.

George Cormack, manager of Certified Aberdeen Angus Beef marketing scheme in Great Britain spoke to the delegates about some of the problems which arose when the producers there set up their certification program.

Now, with the program supplying top beef to limited markets, a producer can make a lot more money if the carcass makes the top grade.

Dr. Robert Long of Texas Tech University spoke about what criteria are important when making wise breeding decisions.

The four major criteria he pointed out were reproductive efficiency, growth rate per unit of feed, composition of muscle and fat, and longevity.

Other speakers at the forum included Colin Lyons, the principal of an Australian farmer and stock breeding family and Dr. Gunther Rahnefeld, head of the animal science section of Agriculture Canada's Brandon research station.

Lyons spoke on the role of Angus cattle in Australian livestock industry, with a discussion on Canada's contributions to that industry.

Rahnefeld provided an overview of research in Canada with an emphasis on crossbreeding various breeds with Angus females as a major component.

Making people aware

ERCB promotes yearly report

The ERCB is out trying to do the big sell for its annual report this year.

Marvin Abugov, a communication assistant with the board is going to many Alberta papers in an effort to get the word out that the report is there for people to read.

This year they printed 10,000 copies of the report, said Abugov. He added there are usually only 2,000 copies printed. The reports are free of charge to anyone interested, he explained.

"This year we're getting out and trying to promote it," he commented.

He explained the ERCB is making people aware of the varied jobs it does.

"Most people see us at our hearings," he stated. However, the board is also pulling together all of the Alberta energy information, overseeing development and a variety of other jobs, said Abugov.

The report is available at the local ERCB office.

Handful of Ideas

Handicapped expansion on hold

The Drayton Valley Association for the Developmentally Handicapped plan to take a serious look at their over crowded conditions in the fall.

"We don't meet in the summer", explains executive director Ron Szala.

"When the executive meets in the fall we will take a look at what's needed", Szala added.

Tom Turner, chairman of the fund raising and publicity committee told a recent annual meeting that the association had out-grown their facilities and residences.

"It is the recommendation of this committee that the executive undertake a study to ascertain the feasibility of major facilities", Turner stated.

"Right now we're not sure what to do. Add on to our present facilities or re-locate", Szala added.

"We have a handful of ideas. However, the key direction hasn't been established", Szala explained.

Before the executive consider any expansion, they will have to come up with the money, and that could be a problem.

"The government has been holding the line on any expansion for the past two years. And, we can't think about proceeding without government money", Szala says.

But with an election year coming up, Szala is hoping some money will be available.

Both association residences are full and 11 people are on a waiting list.

And, the Beehive Workshop is busting at the seams.

"We're definitely feeling the crunch," Szala admits.

Wedding held at Wishing Well

By Belle Cahoon

A bridal shower was held June 28 for Theresa Bustin at her sister's home, Mrs. Gustafson. She received many lovely, useful gifts.

Mr. & Mrs. William Moore have returned from their visit to Ontario where they visited relatives and friends.

Bertha Simpson had a nice holiday with her relatives and friends.

"Bill Genick enjoyed a week's visit with his niece in Regina.

Harold and Florence Neraasen had visitors out from Edmonton and Winnipeg. Their son is a doctor in Winnipeg.

Our potluck supper and barbecue turned out great. The club furnished steaks and hamburgers. The rain came, but the supper went on as usual.

Francis Lainebury had a lovely reunion with her family in the Okanagan Valley in B.C.

My daughters were here visiting from Edmonton — Jean-Kruse, Patti Johnson and children Samantha and Blair.

I visited my friend, Alice Herbert, at Lake Isle who has been in the hospital and is now home.

A wedding supper was held for Theresa Bustin and Edward Moschuk in the Elks Hall. They had taken the vows at Tomahawk earlier.

Annie Parenteau and Richard Clemmer took the sacred vows in the Wishing Well lounge on July 20. All the residents were invited. It was a nice, quiet wedding. Their children attended. An open-air reception was held in her daughter's yard (Mrs. McGinn).

The newly weds will be living in Leduc. We all wish them lots of happiness.

Our bingos are going on as usual and doing well.

Add up what a 12-month John Deere finance charge waiver means to you

Are most advertised "low-rate" finance offers the big ones they're made out to be? Not compared to John Deere's 12-month finance charge waiver for new 100-to-300 PTO horsepower tractors (includes 4000 through 6800). As the chart shows, the John Deere 12-month waiver is more attractive than most of the low-rates offers you're most about. And, as you can see, paying off the John Deere contract early could result in substantial savings. You get the full value of the special finance offer plus flexibility.

Alberta Research Council

Penhold weather project takes on Mother Nature

Taking on Mother Nature isn't easy, just ask Jim Renick.

Renick is project manager of the Alberta Research Council's Weather Modification program.

The program, based at the Red Deer Industrial Airport, studies how hail and rain can be controlled through cloud seeding.

Hail causes $100 million damage every year Renick said and the most frequently hailed on area is around Rimbey.

In the 1960s the Olds' area was the brunt of the most hail storms but this pattern has now shifted northward to the Rimbey area.

Renick calls it a "natural shift" as hail is most "predominant close to the mountains."

The project covers mainly the area between Edmonton and Calgary. This area is divided into a full seeding area, a discretionary seeding area and a storm experiment area. The full seeding area is between Red Deer and Calgary, the discretionary area is located around Rocky Mountain House with Three of the radar towers at the Penhold project, the experiment area stretching from north of Red Deer to just south of Drayton Valley.

The hail clouds are seeded with silver iodide crystals (dry ice) by the five different planes located at the airport equipped for seeding.

In addition to the five seeding planes, the project also has two research planes that collect valuable data in the hail clouds.

One of the two research planes is on contract from the South Dakota School of Mines and Technology for the next month. It is equipped with armor plating to protect it from large hailstones.

The T-28 aircraft means the researchers can go inside the hail clouds where they didn't dare go before to collect data.

Denis Musil, the aircraft controller for the plane, says the plane is "held back" for hailstorms and can gather information "unknown about hail storms."

So far the T-28 has only been used once in a hailstorm while stationed at Penhold.

They have gone up "other times but the clouds didn't cooperate," Musil says.

Myron Oleskiw, a cloud physicist with the project, explains that each of the research aircraft are fitted with sensors to record sizes of particles in clouds. By using this and other data collected they are trying to find out if and how the seeding is affecting the clouds.

"We try to find out what is happening on the edge (of the cloud)," Oleskiw said in adding they try to avoid the large hail areas of clouds.

Myron Oleskiw, a cloud physicist points out features of the research plane.

"We are trying to find out if we can change clouds at early stages," he pointed out.

By injecting silver iodide into the clouds they create artificial nuclei in the cloud increasing the number of hailstones. Through this method the hailstones are smaller and even though there is more they will do less damage to crops.

The clouds are seeded in two methods according to Bill Curtis, one of 10 pilots with the project. The clouds can be seeded from the top or the base Curtis said in adding that top seeding is more accurate.

"You know the seeding agent is going precisely where you want it," he explained about the top seeding method.

The theory of seeding hail clouds is carried in to the seeding of rain clouds.

The injection of artificial nuclei into clouds also stimulates condensation of cloud vapor and thus rain.

Photos and story by Lorne Christensen

Bill Curtis, a pilot examines the flares they use to seed the clouds.

Renick says they seed clouds which do not normally produce rain. Although this procedure does not produce large amounts of rain it could have more financial impact.

"Financially the lack of water or drought is more wide-spread," Renick pointed out.

Hail costs farmers about $100 million a year but extra rain is worth "ten times that amount" Renick added in explaining why they seed rain clouds.

Renick said it is difficult to say how well the project is working.

He says that all clouds "die at some point" and the key is if the seeding is causing them to die earlier.

But he is confident that they are making progress and hopes the five-year mandate which ends this fall will be continued by the government.

There are 106 people associated with the project working at the airbase near Penhold.

But with the recent good weather the researchers have had little to do.

"I'd like to see a few hail storms soon," Renick joked, "but at the same time you don't want to have them."

Given the current outbreak of grasshoppers, my office has received hundreds of calls on the use of chemical insecticides. This process is not cheap, nor is it very safe to people.

Money first. The minister of agriculture has announced a subsidy program on grasshopper control chemicals. This program is very similar in operation to the fertilizer subsidy. You will be required to fill out the usual forms. You will need to bring your receipts for the chemical you bought.

The subsidy, as they tell us, will be 50 per cent of the cost of eligible grasshopper control chemicals. These forms will be available through the Agricultural Service Board of the respective county you're in. At the time this was written the forms are unavailable, but they are coming.

In the County of Parkland, the ASB office phone number is 542-4428, and in Leduc call 886-2261. I see no reason not to go to the nearest office because the program is provincial, but I haven't seen the fine print yet either.

Remember, when you go to apply, you will need your original receipts, legal land descriptions of the areas treated, the number of acres sprayed, what insecticide you used, and the dates of spraying. If you used a custom or aerial sprayer, you'd best get the information from him.

We are also very concerned about poisoning by insecticides. For a great number of the area farmers this is their first experience with insecticides. Insecticides are considerably more poisonous than weed sprays.

The D.A. Column

For example, last week I talked about the LD50 values of various chemicals. The LD50 value is the amount of chemical compared to body weight that will kill 50 per cent of the population. Sounds very complicated, but put very simply the larger the LD50 value the safer the chemical is to people. The smaller the value the more dangerous it is. An LD50 value below 600 is considered highly toxic.

Some common chemicals you may run across regularly: table salt - 4000; baking soda - 3500; malathion - 200; aspirin (ASA) - 1500; MCPA - 700; 2,4-D - 550; chlordane - 400; diazinon - 250; and Furadan - 11. Guess what? Furadan is the most common grasshopper spray used around here! It is very toxic to people.

Obviously safety recommendations for safety equipment are very strict. In the case of highly poisonous sprays like furadan we need good quality coveralls (washed at the end of each day to remove chemical), rubber gloves, rubber boots, hats, goggles and RESPIRATORS.

I know it's very hot outside, and this equipment is far from cool to wear, but this is your health we are talking about. Chemicals get into the body in various ways. Inhaling spray is very common, hence the respirator. It can also be absorbed through the skin, scalp and hands. Leather boots and gloves are not sufficient protection, after all leather is a skin too.

Good luck with your spraying this year. Done well and properly it can be safe and profitable.

It's neat to Pitch-In!

Local inventor

Gray finds wine tree inspiration moving

Drayton Valley inventor Rex Gray once found inspiration for an invention very moving.

A friend of his had to move a collection of wine which was stored in drain tiles. This friend wanted a better storage method.

Rex Gray standing over the Wine Tree.

The wine tree "was the first thing that came into my mind," commented Gray.

Based on a "lazy-suzanne" type bearing, the wine tree, the name Gray wants to market the device under, is a round, layered rack which holds a wine bottle with the cork down. The tree only needs 32 inches square to sit in and can hold up to 22 dozen bottles in a rack eight feet high.

The rack can be bought in increments of one dozen per ring, explained Gray.

His first version of the wine tree was made of steel and "took a day to build," he said.

However, the first successful aluminum model took about a year to perfect. The foundry in Calgary which did the aluminum work for Gray is really "fussy."

"They don't allow any flaws at all," Gray explained.

Gray said he has already sold about a dozen of both the steel and aluminum versions, but is looking for someone to manufacture the rack.

"Inventing is one thing, but selling is another," he explained.

Interest has been shown in the item from a company in the states which wanted to buy several of the units, but did not want the plain aluminum style which they were made in, Gray said.

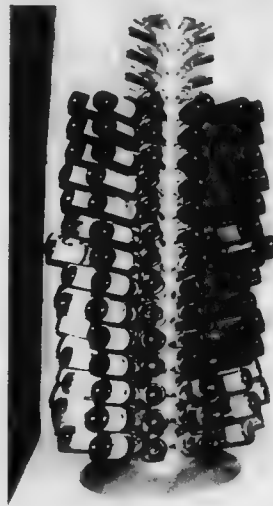

So now, he has come up with two metallic coatings, black, white and off-white colors for the wine tree, he commented.

Gray has also invented items such as a cattle feeder and an attachment for a milling machine.

The patent for the wine tree went through the government in one day, first compared to the one before that which took 10 days, he said.

The quickness of the search for the wine tree, to see if anyone had invented it before, impressed Gray.

"There's nothing like it at all," he explained.

Invention with load of wine in place.
